

AVM (Alliance for Vulnerable Mission) Bulletin January 2010.

Happy new year to all AVM'ers!

'Aidwatch' is a website set up from Columbia University in New York to keep a tag on the use of aid around the world, especially the Millennium Development Project.

<http://aidwatchers.com/>

See here: <http://www.christianstandard.com/articledisplay.asp?id=1392> for Robert Reese (AVM member's) article on 'Best Mission Practices in the 21st Century' that are aimed at avoiding creation of dependency.

'Please stop commenting on Ugandan issues' says Ugandan Bishop in Christianity Today. Ugandans are now, it seems, embarrassed by the fact that their official language is that of America. In this globalising age, this means that, whether by intent or otherwise, America will try to control. This seems to have major implications ...

<http://www.christianitytoday.com/ct/2009/decemberweb-only/151-42.0.html?start=3>

Please send me your contributions to the next edition of the AVM Bulletin.

Best wishes,

Jim Harries
Chairman, AVM.

www.vulnerablemission.com

jim@vulnerablemission.com